Synopsis

This talk is all about helping professional / graduate engineers to level up in their careers and master the skills needed to excel in both engineering and project management. The talk will cover:

- ➔ Staying Technically Sharp: How to keep your engineering skills current while also learning the tools and processes that help you lead projects more effectively.
- ➔ Networking and Mentorship: Tips on building a strong professional network, connecting with other engineers, and finding mentors who can guide your career growth.
- ➔ Communication for Engineers: Learn how to clearly communicate complex technical concepts, whether you're leading a project team, talking with stakeholders, or presenting to upper management.
- ➔ Project Management Skills: How to develop project management expertise, including organizing teams, managing deadlines, and balancing technical and business goals.
- ➔ Work-Life Balance: Strategies for managing your workload and staying healthy while climbing the professional ladder.

Please join the session to listen directly from the speaker's experience with a mix of practical engineering and project management tips to boost your career and lead successful projects.
